- Actual distribution amounts are based on gains and losses realized through October 31, 2022. Tax adjustments may cause losses to be deferred or may cause unrealized amounts to be treated as realized. Changes in shares outstanding may cause per share amounts to vary.
- The RMB SMID Cap Fund listed above paid an early ordinary income and capital gain distribution on November 7, 2022, to all shareholders of record as of November 4, 2022. An additional ordinary income distribution was also paid on December 13, 2022 to all shareholders of record of December 12, 2022.
- Short-term capital gains are taxable as ordinary income. The above chart does not reflect calculations for Qualified Dividends. However, those calculations, if applicable, will appear on your 2022 Form 1099-DIV.
- The RMB Funds listed above are expected to pay capital gain distributions on December 13, 2022, to all shareholders of record as of December 12, 2022. The price for each fund distributing capital gains will be adjusted downward on the business day following the record date to reflect the amount of the distribution.

Mutual fund investing involves risk; principal loss is possible.

*Each Fund's investment objectives, risks, charges, and expenses must be considered carefully before investing. The prospectus contains this and other important information about the RMB Funds and it may be obtained by calling (855) 280-6423 or by downloading from www.rmbfunds.com. Read the prospectus carefully before investing. For specific tax-related questions, please consult your tax advisor for advice.

The Funds may invest in foreign securities, which are subject to the risks of currency fluctuations, political and economic instability and differences in accounting methods. Those risks are greater for emerging market countries. The fund invests in smaller companies, which involve additional risks such as limited liquidity and greater volatility. Changes affecting a particular sector or region of the world economy in which the fund has invested may have significant effects on the portfolio.

The RMB Funds, Inc. are distributed by Foreside Financial.
